Village Wins Battle in Fight To Ban Commercialized Area

Once again, Carmel aroused from its peaceful winter slumber, scored a decisive victory this week when it won another battle in the time-honored war against the encroachment of commercialism.

The colors of triumph were raised on Tuesday when the Monterey county planning commission after a stirring hearing returned an almost blanket recommendation for residential zoning on all property surrounding Carmel.

In its recommendation made to the supervisors, the commission ruled that to permit the establishment of "auto camps, hot dog stands and other commercialized enterprises on property adjacent to Carmel would mar the entire scenic beauty of that section."

The commission's recommendation on Tuesday brought to a climax the fight that has been brewing for many months to zone the environs of the village. Despite the formal protests filed by Paul Flanders of the Carmel Land company, and Willis J. Walker, wealthy landholder, the commission overruled their objections and ordered the adoption of a residential zoning plan for the entire area in question.

Only on two spots in the area, have exceptions been recommended. They include the permission for a service station near the toll gate on Carmel Hill and a service station by the bridge near the Mission.

The Carmel Land company's property across from Hatton Fields where the proposed auto camp was scheduled to be constructed was zoned definitely for only residential buildings.

Recommendation of the commission will be made at the next meeting of the board of supervisors when the zoning plan comes up for adoption. While another fight looms before the supervisors, it was indicated this week that the board would probably pass favorably on the plan.

Decision to give the residents of Carmel and surrounding territory the right to safeguard their property against commercialism was made by the commission after Tuesday's hearing when some 300 persons made known their demands.

The hearing opened when Mayor John Catlin presented to the commission a petition bearing some 700 names asking for residential zoning. Catlin briefly, but with well chosen words, painted the damage that would be done to the entire peninsula if the zoning plan was not adopted.

Judge J. A. Bardin, attorney for residents in Hatton Fields, cited to the members of the commission an important supreme court ruling in a similar zoning case as was under consideration.

He explained that the commission had the right to zone against any business or type of architecture that would be detrimental to the majority of property owners.

"The entire future of not only Carmel but Point Lobos and surrounding property is in your hands at this very minute," Bardin said. "If you now allow the seed of commercialism to be planted, it means the end of a world famous village."

Frederick Bechdolt, Carmel author and one of the leaders in the fight to zone the property, spoke on the injury that the home owners would suffer if commercialism was permitted to gain ground.

"As the zoning map stands now," Bechdolt told the commission, "property owners who have spent thousands in beautifying their land and their homes are being threatened by having auto camps, dance halls, hot dog stands and other businesses at their very front door. It is the right of the commission to come to their protection."

Adolph Hanke, Hatton Fields property owner gave a stirring talk on what the zoning meant to Carmel.

"It is now a question," he said to the commission, "of whether the protests of two land holders will rule over the wishes of hundreds of residents. The voice of the people must be heard and will be heard!"

Frank Sheridan, property owner in Carmel Woods told of how he had come to live and buy property in Carmel, because it was free of the commercialized area. He pointed out that the entire future of this section of the peninsula would be ruined, unless immediate zoning steps were taken.

Stephen Allen Reynolds, Carmel author, spoke briefly and to the point, when he told the com-

THE ZONING VICTORY

The difference between the zoning plan for the highway about Carmel as presented a few months ago at a meeting at Sunset School, and the one that was recommended to the supervisors by the county planning commission last Tuesday, is the value of energetic and determined opposition to a wrong. Carmel saw that all it had worked for through the years was imperiled by the commercialized attitude of a few property owners, and quickly rallied to battle against greed. The result was a victory—or is a victory so far.

If the supervisors accept the recommendation of the planning commission, there will be no hotels, motels, auto camps, campgrounds, or commercial centers on the highway between the hill tollgate and the river bridge, nor will it be lined with shacks for the sale of fruits or hot dogs.

It will be kept a scenic highway, and the entrance to Carmel will be pleasing in appearance. It is our business now to impress upon the board of supervisors the necessity of passing the zoning ordinance as recommended.

Carmel owes its thanks to the committee of citizens who carried the burden of the fight to change a map that, at the time the committee was selected was sanguinary red, to a sunshiny yellow along its whole way. To those men who would not compromise, but waved the banner of beauty in the faces of determined opposition, we are indebted for a plan of zoning that covers our needs. Their hands should be upheld until the ordinance is finally passed, and then they should be supported in a battle to make such zoning cover the whole length of the highway to the Monterey county line to the south.

mission that the entire village was wholeheartedly in support of a complete residential zoning plan.

Following the discussion which lasted for almost three hours, the commission retired and went into executive session. When 20 minutes later the doors of the chambers were opened, Carmel Martin, chairman of the commission, announced the decision that again meant another victory for Carmel in the battle against its arch-enemy of commercialism.

Sites For New Postoffice To Be Inspected Next Wednesday

All proposed sites for Carmel's new $85,000 postoffice are scheduled to be inspected next Wednesday when George Rolfe, site agent for the treasury department arrives to confer with property owners.

Word of Rolfe's visit to Carmel was received yesterday by Postmaster William Overstreet, who said that everyone of the 20 sites submitted will be carefully investigated.

In his communication with Overstreet, Rolfe indicated that he would spend several days in Carmel and will also discuss the matter with residents to determine which will be the most logical location for the postoffice.

There are 20 bids which will be under consideration and of this number several are disqualified for not having the sufficient amount of square feet demanded in the federal specifications.

Prices for property which is under consideration are reported to range from $5000 to $25,000.

On his arrival in Carmel, Rolfe will immediately confer with Postmaster Overstreet who will then call a meeting of property owners involved. After his visit here, utes later the doors of the chambers were opened, Carmel Martin, chairman of the commission, announced the decision that again meant another victory for Carmel in the battle against its arch-enemy of commercialism.

ton, although in virtually every case, the preferred recommendation of the site agent is accepted.

Within sixty days after the property has been purchased, bids will be opened for the construction of the new postoffice building.

Among the owners and real estate agents who have offered sites are: Barnet Segal, Elizabeth McClung White, Stella J. Guichard, Carmel Land Company, Carl Humann, Mrs. Jessie Graham, Peter Mawdsley acting for Mrs. Margaret Kilpatrick, Mrs. Abbie L. McReavy, Carmel Realty Company, Mary A. Goold, Carmel Property Company acting for Mrs. Louise Hasty and for Anna Hitchcock and T. H. Roach and Conrad Imelman.

City Council Acts in Support Of "Carmel Dollar" Plan

Strong recommendation that the "Carmel Dollar" plan to relieve unemployment and stimulate business in the village be given full support by the residents was made in a resolution passed by the city council at their regular monthly meeting on Wednesday night.

Members of the Carmel Business association appeared before the council and asked that the first issue of the "Carmel Dollar" plan be placed in circulation by the city.

Because of a legal technicality as interpreted by City Attorney Argyll Campbell, the city is not able to issue the stamp certificates.

Mayor John Catlin and other members of the council, also spoke in support of the plan and pointed out that the city officials would do everything within their power to co-operate in making the stamp certificate plan in Carmel a success.

Eugene Watson, president of the Carmel Business association, Howell Byrnes, chairman of the committee in charge of the "Carmel Dollars," E. H. Ewig, Miss Mary Burt Messer, Bernard Rowntree and William Overstreet all addressed the council and spoke on the plan.

On the motion of Councilman Heron the following resolution was adopted:

BE IT RESOLVED, by the Council of the City of Carmel-

by-the-Sea, that the council does hereby approve, and does strongly urge upon the residents of said city, the whole-hearted support of the plan sponsored by the Carmel Business Association for the issuance, circulation and redemption of Carmel Dollars to aid in the relief of the local unemployed and to foster home trade in said city. Be it further resolved, that a copy of this resolution be spread upon the minutes of said council.

Possibility that Carmel may purchase and own its fire hydrants loomed definitely following the appointment of a committee composed of Councilmen Heron, Jordan and Norton to make a complete investigation of the matter.

Heron revealed figures showing that Carmel pays over $3000 a year for the rental and use of 84 fire hydrants. Salinas, he explained with 142 hydrants owned by the city, only pays $100 annually for the use of water.

According to Heron's figures, the city pays enough rental every two years to purchase and install all new fire hydrants.

Members of the committee appointed by Mayor Catlin will meet with city officials of Monterey and Pacific Grove, who are also dissatisfied with the excessive rates charged by the water company. The three cities united, will probably prepare the necessary papers and data and appear before the railroad commission to request an investigation of the rates.

"Not only are the rates for the fire hydrants excessive," Mayor Catlin told the council, "but as everyone knows, so are the water rates for general consumption.

I'm in favor of demanding a full investigation of all the rates."

A request from Fire Chief Robert Leidig for the installation of a number of new fire hydrants was taken under consideration. It was indicated that several of these hydrants will be installed at once.

Chief Leidig in his request, called attention to the fact that there were insufficient hydrants located by Sunset School. He warned the council that in event of a fire gaining headway in the new auditorium, it would be almost impossible to extinguish the blaze with the small hydrants that are now located nearby.

A letter addressed to the Monterey county planning commission thanking them for the consideration of the wishes of the Carmel residents in recommending the zoning of territory surrounding the village was instructed to be written by the council.

At the request of Eugene Watson, the council will also write a letter to the board of supervisors requesting that they adopt the zoning plan as recommended by the commission.

Carmel Plays Big Part in Success of Circus

As usual, Carmel played an important part toward making the benefit "circus" last week-end one of the most successful events held on the peninsula in years.

Over $1500, it was reported early this week, is expected to be turned over to the peninsula unemployment fund, of which Carmel will receive around one quarter. The affair was not only successful financially, but also from the standpoint of entertainment. The hundreds who took in the affair were enthusiastic over the entire show.

Mrs. Sidney Fish of Carmel Valley was directly in charge of the circus. Among those from Carmel who assisted in the entertainment were Wilna Hervey, Sis Reamer, Winsor Josselyn, Nan Mason, Madame Doreen and many others. Mayor John Catlin and Charles Roberts Aldrich acted as judges of costumes.

Carmel May Get $5000 Loan for Relief Here

Possibility that Carmel will receive from $3000 to $5000 from the Federal Reconstruction Finance Corporation for relief among the unemployed in this section loomed definitely here this week.

The corporation recently approved the $1,974,083 loan to the state of California. Of this amount, Monterey county will receive $40,000 which will be distributed to the various communities. Carmel, it is understood, has asked for $5000.

The loan is expected to stimulate business not only in Carmel but the entire Monterey peninsula. The loan which is made to the state will not have to be paid back by the taxpayers, but will be eliminated from the annual highway appropriation that is made by the federal government.

Funeral Services Held For Mrs. B. C. Scripture

Funeral services were held in Pacific Grove yesterday for Mrs. Barbara Christine Scripture, who died at the home of her son, D. W. Scripture in Hatton Fields.

Mrs. Scripture who was 82 years old had made her home with her son for some time. The Rev. E. B. Winning officiated at the services and the body was sent to Santa Cruz for cremation.

Pat Field is in Palo Alto this week where she has entered several pets in the dog show there.

Spending Means Prosperity

Believing that the best way to instill confidence in the future prosperity of the Peninsula is to speak right out loud for the next 3 weeks, we will present this feature to our readers and here you will find individuals and firms who are spending time and money in the upbuilding of the community. If there ever was a time when confidence is needed to hasten the return of normal business conditions it is right now. The man who will do nothing, learn nothing, try nothing, is in for a future that holds nothing. We are all heroes now because we can't back out; we must stay in and fight it through. But faith in the other fellow, faith in your own ability and faith in the future are the three essentials that will bring back prosperity.

The series of editorials in conjunction with this feature is being sponsored by those people who accomplish things and are entitled to your favorable consideration for their public spirited support of measures which make for progress. They represent the driving force so essential to the commercial PROSPERITY of this city, and in dealing with them no mistakes will be made. The PINE CONE is honored in thus making these CIVIC BOOSTERS better known.

What the whole country needs is to discourage hoarding, doubting and fearing. Liberal spending represents prosperity. One chief cause of our present trouble is unwise economy. No long argument is needed to prove that the only money you can get is what somebody else spends or pays out. The only money that can contribute to prosperity and the happiness of all is money freely spent.

If it does not rain, crops do not grow. If fertilizer is not contributed to the soil, agriculture suffers. If money is not poured steadily into commerce and industry the nation suffers.

The temporary dullness that would normally be ended now has been prolonged by fear and harmful hoarding. The government has been obliged to issue hundreds of millions of new money to make up for that which has been withdrawn from circulation and hidden away by timid citizens lacking confidence in their own community.

"Pinafore," Famed Operetta, To Be Given By Community Players

By Richard L. Masten

The announcement that the Community Players are to put on the Gilbert and Sullivan operetta "Pinafore" as their next production should be most acceptable to a great many people interested in drama, in music and in a good time. For it marks a new and promising departure in the policy of that organization.

There has never been any lack of musical talent on the Monterey Peninsula, and thanks to the Music Society there has been no dearth of concert productions of a high order. But musical fun has heretofore been somewhat lacking, particularly in winter. The Forest Theater has done its part in offering us Gilbert and Sullivan, Cator and Newberry and Metz

Durham's occasional shows, and once or twice the Abalone League has broken into song, but the one organization capable of sustained action in musical comedy has fought shy of presentations requiring such effort and expenditure.

For this reason it has always been difficult to put on an operetta. Amateur performers are not likely to be at their best when they appear but once a year, and while the nucleus of singers has been fostered—the capital is ours—by the local glee club the all important instrumental support has been lacking.

All this will be changed if the forthcoming Community Theatre performance meets with the enthusiastic support which it deserves. The orchestra, composed of professionals who don't mind working for the fun of it, is being organized, the chorus is being drilled, and there is hope that in the future the Peninsula will be able to take musical comedy, as it already takes the spoken drama, for granted.

"Pinafore," with its piquant simplicity, is a happy choice for the inauguration of this pleasing departure. If it proves popular—and it should—other such productions are certain to follow, and a field for the writer of light music and light comedy as well as for the singer will be opened.

Those who attend the performance of "Pinafore" will therefore be assisting at the development of a new side of Carmel life—a new facet to an already brilliant diamond, as it were. Not only will the Community Theatre benefit, but the Forest Theater as well. And no matter how much our musical enthusiasts may appreciate Wagner and Debussy we all like a little spice in our melodic diet now and then. We thrill to the nightingale and the lark, but it is quite pleasant to hear cheery Mr. Robin Redbreast chirping once in a while.

"Venus" Trial To Be Held Tomorrow Morning

The four Carmel youths, who are accused of having taken Fred Wermuth's naked Venus for a ride several weeks ago, will appear before Judge George Wood tomorrow morning at ten o'clock.

The four, Joe Schoeninger Jr., Bob Scripture, Neil Weston and William Durnee, are charged with malicious mischief on a complaint sworn out by Wermuth. The hearing will be brief, and according to Judge Wood, if the charge is pressed, they will be certified to juvenile court in Salinas.

On Friday night, January 13, the four are said to have taken the marble statue from in front of Wermuth's home on San Carlos street and moved it to the middle of the intersection at San Antonio and Ocean avenue.

Scholarship Tea To Be Given At Scout House

A scholarship benefit tea will be given on Saturday February 11 at the Girl Scout House by members of the local branch of the Society of American university women. Arrangements for the affair are in charge of Mrs. C. J. Ryland.

Proceeds from the tea will be used in providing a college scholarship for a graduate to be selected from the Monterey high school. Carmel residents are urged to be present at the tea.

John Neikirk Injured in Valley Accident

John Neikirk, Carmel builder, narrowly escaped serious injuries Sunday when the car he was riding in, skidded on the valley road and overturned. Neikirk was pinned under the wreckage for two hours before he was finally extricated.

According to Dr. David Matzke, who treated him, Neikirk's injuries were not serious.

Judge Jorgensen Talks Before Local Gathering

A talk on judicial matters and jury duty was given last week by Superior Judge H. G. Jorgensen when he spoke at a dinner meeting of the Monterey county Scottish Rite club held at Pine Inn.

During the dinner a brief talk was also given by Mrs. Vera Watson. Charles A. Watson of Carmel, president of the Masonic club presided at the dinner meeting.

New Trustee Named for Monterey High School

R. E. Bentley, prominent East Monterey merchant, is now the new member of the Monterey high school board of trustees. He was appointed last week by James Force, county superintendent of schools and succeeds W. W. Wells of Elkhorn, who died following a short illness.

Carmel Has Smallest Bonded Indebtedness

Of all the communities in the central coast counties, Carmel has the smallest per capita bonded indebtedness, according to the figures released this week by the League of Municipalities.

The figures show that the bonded indebtedness of Carmel at the present time is $19,500 or $8.63 per person. Other cities, particularly on the peninsula, have tremendous bonded indebtedness. Monterey owes $507,000 in bonds while Pacific Grove has $92,000 in bonds. Santa Cruz owes over a million dollars.

Bardarson Elected As Head of Principals

Otto Bardarson, Sunset school principal, is the new president of the Monterey county principals' association, following his election at a meeting of the organization held in Salinas last Saturday.

Some 40 school principals from all sections of the county were present at the meeting. Bardarson succeeds Joseph C. Fry of Santa Rita as head of the association.

Pebble Beach Again Chosen for Golf Meet

Pebble Beach was again selected as the scene of the annual state amateur golf championship tournament this year at a meeting of the California Golf association Saturday night at Del Monte.

The action effectively ended a vigorous campaign sponsored by the Hearst newspapers attempting to wrest the annual classic from the Monterey Peninsula for a Southern California golf club.

Despite this opposition the golf association chose by unanimous vote the ticky oceanside course over which the state amateur has been played ever since the course was constructed many years ago.

Dates for the 1933 tournament will be selected later. The event is usually scheduled early in September.

Woman's Club to Hold Monthly Session Monday

The regular monthly meeting of the Carmel Woman's club will be held next Monday afternoon at the Girl Scout House under the auspices of its garden section.

Mrs. H. S. Nye will read a paper on foreign gardens and Miss Anne Grant will tell of her garden. Mrs. Richard M. Lyman will also speak.

A benefit card party will be given by the garden section on February 20 at 2 o'clock. Proceeds will be turned over to the employment funds.

Carol Weston and Dora Blaney Play Tomorrow

By Hal Garrott

Like a beautiful woman Carmel enjoys many things as gifts which less favored sister cities pay dearly for. Without attempting to enumerate all the blessings that come from Santa Claus, let us consider the Carol Weston-Dora Blaney violin-piano recital in the Denny-Watrous Gallery tomorrow night.

When mere girls these two concertized extensively in America, Canada and Europe at $500 per week. This was followed by an offer running into five figures annually from a vaudeville syndicate because, as the manager deftly put it, "dope girls haf IT." The offer was turned down since Weston and Blaney aspired to perform only the best in music. While on tour in Switzerland, Weston and Blaney were invited to play before Paderewski, then at the height of his career. To the master's delight they chose one of his own violin-piano sonatas, and this number will be included in their program tomorrow night along with a Brahms and a gorgeous Cesar Franck.

Weston and Blaney are among the very, very few concert artists who are making a good living in spite of the depression. That is why they can afford to favor Carmel with a recital in a tiny hall, at an admission charge so small, it is imposed not for profit, but to avoid the overcrowding that accompanies a free concert.

Besides concert performances and accompanying, Dora Blaney plays frequently for N. B. C. broadcasts. With Carol Weston concert dates are plentiful. She is a member of Mills College faculty and conducts the student orchestra. She has played with the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra, and was one of the great Auer's favorite pupils. Besides solo work she has directed orchestras in many parts of the world. For a year she conducted symphony concerts in Hawaii, and has appeared in similar capacity in London and America. Carol Weston has many warm friends in Carmel. For months she came here weekly at her own expense, leading our local orchestra as a gift to the town she loves and hopes some day to make her home. In spite of her splendid work as conductor, I feel that the Weston-Blaney concert tomorrow night will prove her finest tribute to the village.

Mollie Murphy, Composer

By Hal Garrott

For many years thousands of American men and women have been devoting much time to the writing of music. But to date not one of them has become a composer of first, or even second rank.

David Alberto is at present working with two young women, one in her teens, the other just emerging from them. David's method is "hands off" on rules and pedantic concepts. The pupil is encouraged to express with freedom the music that wells within. Thus both girls, Elayne Lawson of Monterey, 17, and Mollie Murphy of Salinas, 20, are producing music that is atmospheric or impressionistic. Thematic material wanders unbridled over the keyboard. The result is refreshing. Elayne's work has been reviewed in the Pine Cone. She will shortly give a recital of her own compositions at Del Monte.

Mollie Murphy, who recently played for me, reveals an unusual creative bent. In general it resembles (without imitation) the Boy" is a fragmentary composition more eccentric Preludes of Debussy, such as the Gollywog Cake on a pianist's program. If Mollie Walk. The contrasts are abrupt, continues to apply herself, I feel almost violent. The dissonances certain some day she will surprise are less disturbing than those in Monterey county, and perhaps most modern works. Mollie's "Bad even her teacher.

"Carmel Dollars" To Be Placed In Circulation Here Shortly

By J. Howell Byrnes

Association, sponsors of the plan, to put it into operation).

(NOTE) Within the next ten days, the first of one thousand dollars in "Carmel Dollars" for the relief of the unemployed will begin to circulate in Carmel. For the purpose of giving residents and merchants a satisfactory explanation of the plan, the following article was written by the chairman of the committee appointed by the Carmel Business

The Carmel Dollar for relief of unemployed in Carmel will be issued in about ten days. The issue will be for one thousand and is sponsored by the Carmel Business Association and will be issued either by them or by the City. They will be issued at the rate of $75 to $100 a week.

The reason for these certificates is to provide funds to carry on the work of the Carmel Employment Commission. The funds are practically exhausted, and it is hoped that the public response in the use of the Carmel Dollar will make it unnecessary to campaign for additional employment funds.

The certificate is an emergency currency that has been patterned after the stamped money used by the City of Hawarden, Iowa. It is not legal tender and not bankable, but the merchants of Carmel have agreed to accept it at face value for merchandise and services.

It will be issued originally to the unemployed for work done for the City. Thereafter every transfer of the certificate requires that a 3-cent Unemployed Relief Stamp be affixed to the back and cancelled. When 36 such stamps have been affixed in the spaces provided, the certificate may be redeemed for one dollar in cash.

The stamps for this purpose will be on sale at both Carmel banks, and the money received from their sale will constitute a redemption fund. The additional 8 cents from the sale of the 36 stamps is to cover the cost of printing and issue.

A merchant will not be expected to give change on a purchase of less than $1, nor does he expect them to be offered in payment of accounts. The public can cooperate by taking them in change and spending them. It is hoped that they will not be withdrawn from circulation as souvenirs, as this would defeat the purpose of the issue. The Committee will provide for the sale of cancelled certificates after redemption to those that wish them.

This currency is intended primarily to relieve unemployment. It is hoped also that it will stimulate local trade and relieve residents and taxpayers to some extent from fund campaigns and taxes.

Inquiries and questions are welcomed by the following members of the committee: J. Howell Byrnes, James L. Cockburn, Miss Mary Burt Messer, C. Willard Whitney, E. H. Ewig, W. L. Overstreet, Louis H. Levinson, and Eugene Watson (ex-officio).

Retired Teacher Dies At Carmel Point Home

Funeral services were held this week for Salt Lorenzo Kain, 85-year-old retired school teacher who died Sunday at his home on Carmel Point.

Kain had been a resident on the Point for the past four years. He is survived by a daughter Mrs. Nora Grabill of Carmel and a son, Summer Kain of San Francisco.

Conversational Lecture on Bali To Be Repeated

Bali is in the air just now. Trips are being planned and anyone who has spent months in this Island of Paradise is just the person to answer all of our questions. Tuon and Nonia, as the Balinese called the Mershons, are the ones who can do it, fairly bringing the island before our eyes. By request, the Mershons will repeat the showing of the film of the Priest's hands and the dance of Mario in their conversational lecture on Bali in the Denny-Watrous Gallery on Saturday evening, Feb. 11. Otherwise, the offering of the evening will be new, including the cremation film, another dance reel, records of Balinese music, and other material such as can be gathered only by those who learn the language and stay on the island long enough to assimilate and understand the manners and customs of a people who still live a communal life.

The Mershons did just this, remaining on the island ten months. At the end of February they return for a period of two years.

Discussion of plans for a spring garden show will be the main item of business to come up at the meeting of the Monterey Peninsula Garden club this Friday evening. The meeting will be at 8 o'clock in the Customs house, the new president, Mr. William Fiddes, to preside.

HOLMANIZE

What is

"Q"

"Q" is a short way of saying quality.

Quality has always been a noble word but a much abused one.

What a sick sound quality has in the mouths of those who have no right to use it! So from now on, people who know values will say "Q".

"Q" is the thing that all good workmen, all good writers, all good merchants like to touch with their hands, their minds and their eyes.

Do you believe that a workman would prefer to do a bad job . . . a job without "Q"? Or that a poet would prefer to write a dumb sonnet, or lyric with false rhymes; a poem without "Q"? Or a merchant to sell a shoddy piece of goods . . . a dress, or a chair, or a hat without "Q"?

They would not. People are hungry for true quality. In this day and age "Q" shines out like a candle . . . like a good deed in a naughty world.

"Q" tells you to accept "Quality always at a price, but never price without quality."

Dollars are dollars today. Why hand them over for shoddy?

Newberry's Authentic Autobiography

XXXV

(Synopsis of Preceding Chapters. Our hero, born of poor but honest parents, has come to virile manhood and forty years of age through a series of hair-raising adventures that have wrestled the wolf away from the door in every case. Now with the bright light of prosperity shining upon him and with more than two hundred dollars in the bank, he is out seeking new adventures, and has come over the top of the hill from Monterey to see, spread out below him, the sparkling bay of Carmel, with the tiny village nestling in the pines beside it. Now go on with the story.)

In 1910, Carmel-by-the-Sea was a very limited number of houses dotted over a badly drawn subdivision map of the checker-board type of engineering. Ocean avenue, a broad main street, with sturdy old pines along its edges and some newly planted ones sprouting down its center, held a few scattered frame buildings that housed hotels and stores, the town's commercial center. On that bright spring Sunday morning when Harry Lafer led Bertha and me into Carmel, there was nobody to be seen in the length of its main street. It seemed a deserted village.

"Where do we eat?" I said, for the hike had given me an appetite.

"At Pine Inn at half-past twelve," Lafer replied.

"Now, Where do we eat right now," I insisted, but Lafer shook his head. Until the Inn dining-room opened its doors, there was nothing doing in the food line in Carmel, he explained. We had better look over the village first, then return up-town for a Sunday dinner.

We made our way by paths through the woods toward the south end of the town near the beach, passing a number of houses of the bungalow type on the way. It was all very quiet, very lovely and natural. Finally we came out on a stretch of meadow that overlooked the beach. A single pine tree cast a grateful shade in one place, and we sat beneath it and stared at the surf. Bertha said,

"I want to own this pine tree, Perry."

"Why not? It's probably for sale. We'll buy it."

Lafer got up and began kicking around in the tall grass and lupine. Finally he called,

"Here's a corner stake. You go down seawards a hundred feet and kick up another, Perry. This one's on the street."

"How do you know it's on the street?" I asked lazily.

"Wagon wheel ruts. Yes, and here's the other street stake, forty feet over to the south. The pine tree is almost in the center of the front yard. You could have it in your patio."

"Wouldn't that be lovely!" From Bertha. I got up and hunted the west-end stakes, finally locating them. It was a perfectly harmonious lot except for some poison oak in a corner. Besides the pine tree, lupine and poppies, there were manzanita and cascara bushes, and wild sage brush.

"You really ought to own two lots," Harry suggested, but I shook my head. There was a house in sight, maybe a quarter of a mile away, to the north, and another, nearer, to the south. East was the empty wood; west, nothing of human habitation nearer than the Hawaiian islands. I said,

"We'll buy one lot, and own the world. Why be selfish? Now who do we buy this from, Harry?"

"Frank Devendorf, if we can locate him. Maybe he'll be dining at Pine Inn."

"Let's go!" I shouted eagerly. "If that diningroom door isn't open when we get there, we'll jimmy it. I'm starved!"

We found both dinner and Devendorf at the Inn. Frank Devendorf was the working partner of the Carmel Development Company, owners of Carmel-by-the-Sea. He was a pleasant man to do business with, and admitted that he had been saving the lot with the pine tree on it just for us. He took a map from his pocket, pushed the bird-bath side-dishes away to spread it out, and said,

"Now just where is this pine tree?"

Bertha and Harry and I leaned over studying the diagram. I said,

"This map hasn't any relation to Carmel, has it?"

"It is the map of Carmel, yes," he answered. I pointed to the plotted streets.

"None of these are out there," I insisted.

"Under the brush and trees are streets. You must have been on Carmelo street, somewhere near Twelfth. Probably that lot is in block Y."

"As likely as not," I agreed. "But we'll go back there and make sure, for it might be in block Z or Yucatan for all that map means to me. Are you sure it's not already sold?"

"I'm certain of that." He folded up the map and restored it to his pocket. "Now, what sort of a deal do you want to make?" He looked from me to Bertha, a speculative glint in his eye. I settled more firmly in my chair, prepared for hard bargaining.

"I'll need some time on the payments—"

"Say ten dollars down, and five dollars a month," he broke in. This was so much better than I'd anticipated that I gave an ejaculatory "Well—"

"With a year free of taxes and interest before payments begin if you build at once," Devendorf continued.

"Why—I—"

"Or say five dollars down payment, the balance in monthly installments of five dollars beginning after twelve months, without interest. How does that sound?"

"Wonderful!" I almost shouted. "The deal is made. It's closed. Where is the dotted line?"

"First we will find the exact lot you want with the lone pine on it, and then we'll make up the contract of sale. You wait out in the lobby and I'll hitch up Charlie to the buckboard and drive you down there. I won't be ten minutes." And Devendorf left us to the inviolable and indivisible infinitesimal congratulate ourselves on our nite God" (pp. 334, 335).

Sitting again in the shade of the pine, Devendorf located the lot on his map, and wrote the name Newberry across it. Watching over his shoulder, I saw that the name sprawled over the adjoining lot to the south, and called his attention to the encroachment. He explained,

"You'll want both of them, Newberry. Not now, but someday. And I'll be keeping the other one for you when you do. This will remind me not to sell it to anyone else, that's all. You're buying the one lot today."

So we closed the deal, signed the papers, and became property holders in Carmel-by-the-Sea. As Devendorf jogged us over the road to Monterey to catch the evening train for San Francisco, we planned the house we should build back of the lonely pine.

(To be continued next week)

Christian Science Churches

"Spirit" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon Sunday, February 5, in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

The citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon will include the following from the Bible: "Woe unto him that saith to the wood, Awake; and to the dumb stone, Arise, it shall teach! Behold, it is laid over with gold and silver, and there is no breath at all in the midst of it. But the Lord is in his holy temple: let all the earth keep silence before him" (Hab. 2:19, 20).

The Lesson-Sermon also will include the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Spirit being God, there is but one Spirit, for there can be but one infinite and therefore one God. There are neither spirits many nor gods many. Spirit, God, has created all in and of Himself. Spirit never created matter. There is nothing in Spirit out of which matter could be made, for, as the Bible declares, without the Logos, the Eon or Word of God, 'was not anything made that was made.' Spirit is the only substance,

County Democratic Plums Sour As McGrath Flays Endorsements

The Democratic plums which but a few weeks ago looked so ripe, sweet and tempting, turned sour this week—at least so far as office seekers in Monterey county were concerned.

Congressman-elect J. J. McGrath, upon whose recommendations depend the appointment of new postmasters in the county told the Pine Cone that for the present he would not consider the "premature and ill timed endorsements" made by the county Democratic committee.

McGrath, who made a hurried visit through the county, declared that the endorsements for positions by the Democratic committee were unnecessary and improper at this time.

"It appears clear that certain members of the county Democratic committee have endorsed themselves for the positions or recommended close relatives," McGrath explained. "It seems highly unfair, in my opinion, to make such endorsements, particularly in cases like in Monterey where the postmaster has three more years in office."

Endorsements of candidates for postmasters throughout the county were made early last week by the Monterey county Democratic committee. Some of the candidates endorsed were: P. J. Dougherty, postmaster of Monterey; C. L. Clay, postmaster of Pacific Grove; V. S. Barlogia, postmaster of Salinas and Mrs. Irene Cator, postmistress, Carmel.

Dougherty, Clay, Barlogia, are all members of the Democratic committee and endorsed themselves for the jobs while Mrs. Cator was recommended for the position by her brother, Argyll Campbell, also a member.

Following his visit in Monterey county, McGrath sent Captain

Victor Harding, his secretary and political advisor to make a thorough investigation of the endorsements.

Harding also expressed his opposition to what he termed "cold-blooded and premature endorsements."

A.D.H. Company Completes Extensive Remodeling

The A. D. H. Plumbing and Heating Company has just completed an extensive remodeling job, which equips them still better to serve and demonstrate their most modern methods to the public.

The building, which was once the plumbing shop of T. B. Reedon has been completely done over both inside and out. The old store front has been torn completely out, and the entire exterior has been attractively plastered. The display room has been remodeled, walls plastered, and painted. The floor too, has been done over and laid with beautiful linoleum, and a Spanish tile roof has been laid, making the building of still greater artistic merit.

To augment the building itself, an exquisite display of modern plumbing fixtures has been set up for demonstration purposes. Sample heatingimatauto dev icesce, ple heating devices, automatic water heaters, Wedgewood ranges, and other products which complete a modern service institution of this character have also been installed, so that the prospective purchaser will have nothing left for his or her imagination to work out.

The A. D. H. Company is managed by Mr. C. L. Wilder who has identified himself with the company's fine work in Carmel for a number of year. It is equipped to handle all kinds of sheet metal work including Flue building, Ventilating systems, etc.

A. C. Stoney did the carpentry work, J. R. Oakey installed the roof, W. L. Davis was the glazier, while L. E. Lewis was painter in charge.

Campbell Re-appointed Peninsula Prosecutor

Argyll Campbell, Carmel city attorney, was re-appointed deputy district attorney for the peninsula this week by Harry Noland, who was recently named county prosecutor by the board of supervisors.

Noland took the place opened by the resignation of Russell Scott as district attorney. Campbell has been deputy district attorney for the past eight years in addition to being city attorney of Carmel, Pacific Grove and Monterey.

Del Monte Gallery Will Offer Fine Exhibitions

The Del Monte Art Gallery will offer a number of interesting exhibitions during the coming year.

A general exhibition of artists' work will follow the "exhibit of Smaller Pictures" at Del Monte Gallery February 1st. The usual series of one-man shows will begin as usual in March. The initial exhibition will be that of Arthur Hill Gilbert, opening March 15th. This well-known painter of landscape will have a most attractive showing this year of his latest work.

For several months Gilbert has been painting new and interesting phases of the landscape around

Monterey, the subject which so intrigues him and which he renders with an individual charm and appreciation, feeling as he does so deeply the beauty of our surrounding country and the infinite possibilities it holds for the painter.

Spending the week-end in Carmel visiting friends and also attending the Circus Ball, was Mrs. McCormick will show a number of her brilliant and colorful paintings. Billy Sutro, former resident here.

"Match King" Opens at Carmel Theatre Sunday

Warren William, whose work in "The Mouthpiece" and "The Dark Horse" made him one of the most popular bright lights among the newer stars, plays the title role. Lili Damita, petite and intriguing, is equally vital to the story as one unattainable objective in the "Match King's" life.

Here is a picture of epic proportions, told against a setting of lavish elegance. Here is realistic superdrama of the modern age which races in breathless suspense from one great city to another, from one European throne room to the next. Contrasting with the crushing, dominating power of its principle theme is the development of a tender love story which threads its way through the whole of the powerful drama.

"The Match King" opens at the Carmel Theatre Sunday February 5 and Monday February 6. Matinee, Sunday at 2:00 o'clock.

Savings Bank Re-elects All Present Officers

All officers of the Monterey County Trust and Savings Bank were re-elected at a recent meeting held in Salinas of the organization's stockholders.

A. C. Hughes was elected again to serve as president while the other officers named included J. E. Abernethy as vice-president and manager of the Carmel branch of the bank.

The annual report of all officers, supplemented with graphs and charts, showed a sound and substantial growth in all departments during 1932. The directors showed satisfaction with the reports and expressed staunch confidence in the leaders of the institution.

Talk on Far East To Be Given Before Club

Mrs. Bertha C. Cole will give an address on the Far East at the Current Events group meeting of the Carmel Woman's Club to be held on next Wednesday morning at ten o'clock. Mrs. Cole who has lived many years in the Orient will illustrate her talk with pictures.

Appointment of Lionel T. Joy as successor to Ray Shellooe as his deputy was announced today by County Clerk Carol F. Joy. The new appointee, brother of County Clerk Joy, will fill the vacancy caused by appointment of Shellooe as deputy district attorney.

Goodbyes were said last Wednesday to Miss Ernestine Renzel of Carmel, who is to enjoy a leisurely tour of the world. Miss Renzel left by train for Vancouver to join her former school friend, Miss Dorothy Lane of New York. The travelers sailed from British Columbia last Friday and are to stop first at Honolulu, going later to the Orient and the Philippines, where they are to be the guests of friends. Before returning, they will encircle the globe, visiting many places of interest.

What is said to be one of the sensations of the 1933 automobile world is presented this year by Willys. The new cars are being shown at the display rooms of Lorin D. Lacey Pearl and Washington streets, Monterey. Both six cylinder and four cylinder models are being shown.

Many of the new models are advertised as the "lowest priced full sized cars in America" and they are creating unusual comment on the Peninsula due to the many new mechanical features, plus added body comfort and radical streamlining style of body.

The mechanical features of the car include advantages which are typical of much higher priced cars. Full floating power heads the list of newer advancements in all models. Finer upholstery and dozens of other advancements mark the new car as a leader in comfort development. New stream lines increase the beauty of the cars to a tremendous extent, and at the same time augment the mechanical developments which permit unheard of economy of operation. It is said that 25 to 30 miles to the gallon of gas may be expected by any driver.

"Withal, the cars are worth the inspection of all, regardless of ability to purchase at the present time," says Lorin Lacey, "and all are cordially invited to come and have a ride in America's most modern cars."

IS THAT SO?

By Winsor Josselyn

Mt. Carmel Observatory, directed by the eminent Professor E. Schweninger, S. I., sends us another eyebrow-lifting discovery, and no questions asked.

"How to Find Lost Articles!" the bulletin reads.

"Nothing is lost," it continues, "but only mislaid. In your own memory is the key to finding it. Simply turn your memory back to the point where the article was lost—and there you are."

After five pages of technical data, a gem of proof is given.

One of our associates (it continues) the late Dr. O. G. Fellows, borrowed his wife's automobile, and, when he got back a day later from a trip to the post-office, it being the holiday season, he was amazed to find that he was on foot and had somehow lost his wife's car.

His wife, whose name, by the way, was Agate, pointed out the loss, and went on to remind him, chapter and verse, of his wasted life in general. At last the good Doctor rushed out of the house without even Ibsonianly slamming the door. Out of the house and up to the Observatory, where he implored his fellow scientists to help solve the problem. Dr. F. F. Snort immediately advanced a solution.

"O. G.," he said "just spin your memory-pictures back until you see what you did with the car. If you face death you can do this in a twinkling."

Shaking hands all around, the grateful Dr. Fellows left. To his mind came the Greek phrase, "There is always the ocean," and he went to Deep Cove, over at Point Lobos. Off he jumped . . .

The first time down he got only as far as Agate's lecture, but on the second time down he got to the drug store and he found the car. He had parked it in the downtown garage so that it would be safe.

"Found!" he cried. And that was the last thing he ever said. Down he went the third time—down and out, or in, depending on your version of a drowning.

"A complete success!" agreed the Observatory scientists, and wrung Dr. Snort's hand in congratulation.

Don't be surprised if it happens any day now. The Carmel mutiny, the native uprising, the local revolt.

India may have its riots, and Russia may have its revolutions (in America), and South America may have its border battles—but when the native Carmelite starts on the war path against tourists and taxis, and petitions and posters, and culture and carnivals, then call for the militia. It's coming. Beware the forest tom-tom!

Letter Received by This Department:—

Dear Sir:

Might I ask just how your distinguished drama group casts its shows? Not that I am in the least put out because I was refused a part in the forthcoming production "Grand Central," but merely on behalf of the drama generally.

I heard that they wanted actors. The play would need around two thousand people, I was told, to give the right Grand Central atmosphere, and a special set was being built by Mr. and Mrs. Johnson in exact replica of the New York terminal. So I volunteered my services.

Imagine my amazement when Mr. Galt Bell himself turned me down. And what was his reason? "You are not the type," he said, shaking his head. Not the type! And I was born and raised in New York.

Inquiringly yours,
A Native New Yorker

We understand that the crossest of jig-saw puzzles is one owned and operated by Mr. Byington Ford. It has nine thousand four hundred pieces and was shipped by truck. It needs the entire indoor squash court of his Pebble Beach estate to be assembled properly, and as many as seven people are constantly required if it is to be assembled within the fixed time of six months.

You may not know that a special license is needed to use a puzzle of this sort, and that it is sold only with the distinct understanding that if it is not put together within the specified time it reverts to its makers.

Mr. Ford still has three weeks to go, and he has all but twelve hundred odd pieces fitted. Volunteers may apply afternoons between five and six.

Seeing a crush of cars at the river-mouth, led to the conclusion that the sand bar was being cut through once more by ambitious fishermen. It is an annual festival.

Years ago, when the willing hands were few, non-fishers were drafted to help the sturdy rod-and-reel lads when they gave Nature a shove and let the river rush down to the sea. Even to upsetting rehearsals. The fisher-folk knew that all the able bodied actors in town would be eager to see the water go rushing out—after somebody had put cricks in back shovelling—and directors heaved sighs of relief when it was all over.

E. Schweninger managed one year's sand-bar-cut, and so happy was he when the first trickle grew and grew to a turbulent torrent that he leaped in and rode cheering out into Lobos Bay. Later the Coast Guard rescued him.

So the Thirty-two-Thirty-three Ol' Man River act is over.

The Circus Ball last Saturday evening was fortunate enough to have a Pine Cone reporter on the spot. He was disguised as a drummer for the muscle dancer, and so serious was he in his work (work of drumming) that he saw practically nothing of Ball.

Now, the job of being serious in your drumming at such a time is pretty tough. Especially when you are sitting cross-legged on the bar and pounding your hands loose in umpah-umpah rhythm and Little Egypt is musceling on the mahogany not a step away, and on the other side a squally fish horn is wailing hoochy-koochy (spell it your own way) music in your ear.

It was a nice, family evening. As in the case with such gatherings, you have the benefit of immediate knowledge of your behavior. This takes all worry out of the next day, for if you are kept confidentially informed as to how the hell you're performing it prevents that well-known tension afterward.

Your reporter had his heart broken, though, at the very end of the party. He was offered one of the prize baby pigs (an animal pig—not a hungry gal) if he would take it off the winner's hands. Gleelessly he roared up to his partner in muscle-music, who had the motive power that was going to take them back over the hill, and told of the immense luck.

"What? A pig in my car? You bet you don't!" And that ended the free pig right there.

It rained. And kept on raining. But this really helped the party because it made people stay indoors like one big household, and kept pappa and little sister under the hawk eyes of auntie. Knowing that that was that, and that everybody had to get along together, there were no fist fights, no chairs busted over heads, no bottles hurl-

News Notes

In the flood of last Saturday night, Mr. Allan (Stilly) Knight went to Salinas to do a Master-of-Ceremonies act at a swank party. Mr. Knight was the hit of the evening, but pride goeth before a fall, and when he dashed out, homeward bound in the darkness that is just before dawn, he busted the car key off short in the door—with his overcoat locked inside.

Mr. Knight therewith upped the back of the cloth top and crawled in. But his woes were not over. Battling against time he took a turn too fast and landed in what he thinks was the Salinas river, so wide and deep was the roadside ditch. True to his nautical training in the Carmel Yacht Club, he drove along the ditch until it shallowed up, and out he got and away for home again.

He confided to the reporter that he has kept his pilot's license for Inland Waterways for just such emergencies.

Superior Recordings

By T. Harold Grimshaw

A teacher of musical appreciation asked the girls of her class

this question: "How many symphonies did Peter Illytch Tchaikowsky write?" The answer given by a brilliant pupil was as follows: "Tchaikowsky wrote three symphonies—the fourth, the fifth and the sixth." There are perhaps good reasons why we seldom if ever hear the first three. Be this as it may Tchaikowsky enthusiasts may now include the third, recorded splendidly by the London Symphony under the leadership of Albert Coates. In this symphony there are five unusual movements: 1—Allegro Brillante, 2—Alla Tedesca, 3—Andante Elegiaco, 4—Scherzo and Trio, 5—Allegro con fuoco, Tempo di Polacca. As will be judged by the above the work is bright in character and resembles more the strong fourth than the later works. Then too it strikes one as being influenced by the French school rather than the Russian nationalistic. The playing has all the usual Coates vigor and vivacity and the recording is bold with considerable brilliance. Lovers of Tchaikowsky will be well pleased with the four records which are included in this Victor Masterpiece Album M-166.

A particularly attractive disc just now available to American collectors is Victor 11445. This too is an orchestral number and presents on one side the Russian dance Gopak from Moussorgsky's comic opera "The Fair at Sorotchinsk." It will appeal to very many by its delightful gaiety. On the verso of this same record is a curious but most interesting Funeral March from the opera "Mlada" by Rimsky-Korsakow. For funeral music it is indeed pompous, in fact decidedly impressive with shining trumpet blasts and rolling drums. The recording is outstanding.

Forest Hill School

Opens New Semester

Announcement is made of the opening of the new semester at the Forest Hill School, prominent Carmel School of which Mrs. Minna Steel Harper is principal.

The Forest Hill School is an interesting development in Carmel life. It is an outgrowth of the North Berkeley Outdoor School which was successful in Berkeley some ten years ago. The Berkeley school made an enviable reputation for good scholarship, and children from the school were accepted anywhere without question, according to Mrs. Harper.

About nine years ago Mrs. Harper established a summer school at the present location of the Forest Hill School. The children lived in tents, and the life was typically outdoors. But Mrs. Harper was so delighted with Carmel, that she decided to move her entire school here, and with the help of Ralph Jonhonet, the present buildings were constructed. The buildings are beautifully and artistically planned with the ideal in mind of "Outdoors and Indoors" related. Which means plenty of light and air, for one half the main building is glassed in to allow complete access to the out of doors during favorable weather.

The school itself is limited to twenty five pupils, eight of whom may be placed as boarding pupils. The school at present, carries children from the play school age through the eighth grade, and it is anticipated that a junior high school curriculum may be added in the near future. Music, and cultural subjects are stressed, and creative thought is developed in connection with the routine teaching of school subjects, and the children are given "liberty," not "license" in their personal conduct.

The surroundings and atmosphere of the school are home-like and beautiful to a high degree, and the school has earned a reputation for itself through high attainments by graduates in higher education, as well as through parental approval.

Mrs. Harper is looking forward to one of the best years in her history, this year, and is more enthusiastic than ever about the advantages which Carmel offers her in developing her ideal school.

Jig-Saw Puzzle Rage

Puzzles Newspapers

Carmel's jig-saw puzzle controversy which has drawn comment in newspapers not only in California but in the east, is giving editorial writers something to think about.

The following editorial appearing in The Oakland Tribune is typical of a number which have been published on the subject:

While the jig-saw battle at Carmel makes good reading it cannot be accepted too seriously by those who know the widely advertised independence of the inhabitants of that beautiful and artistic city. Here we have a story of the men of Carmel petitioning a council to prohibit jig-saw puzzles and on the grounds the things occupy too much of the attention of the women.

It has been assumed that Carmel was a community of the free, that talk of feminism or anti-feminism was never heard on its streets, and that no one there dare declare a woman's place is in the kitchen, or that man is head of the house. But Carmel men have looked upon the puzzles of many pieces and declared them evil and Carmel men ask the law to do something about it. Though the petition has been read in the council we cannot help but suspect there is more to the story. Perhaps Carmel is engaged in making jig-saw puzzles and is not adverse to a little publicity.

Tickle Back Home After First Senate Session

Ed Tickle was back at his home in Carmel Highlands this week after attending his first session as state senator from this district.

During his month's attendance at the state capitol, Tickle pushed through his efforts to see that adequate funds had been provided for the completion of the Carmel-San Simeon highway and the construction of the Castroville-Prunedale cut-off.

Tickle expressed himself as confident that these two important highway projects in the county would not suffer from the effects of the economy wave that is sweeping the legislature.

"The importance of the Carmel-San Simeon highway is realized by the legislature," Tickle said on his return to Carmel. "The project has the full support of influential leaders in the senate and the assembly as well as the highway commission."

Despite the fact that Tickle is a new state senator, he already holds membership in some of the most important committees in the senate. Among the committees to which he belongs are the banking, education, elections, drainage, insurance, hospitals and asylums, universities and teachers' college, agriculture, conversation and unemployment committees.

One of the most important bills introduced by Tickle was a measure calling for the creation of a fact finding commission to study costs of county government.

The Devil Walks

By Herbert Cerwin

What price authorship?

Ben Hecht wrote his seventy-five thousand word mystery-novel, "Florentine Dagger" in ten hours, dictated to a fast stenographer; Sam Blythe wrote his best novel in less than three weeks; Harry Leon Wilson, his best book in 30 days—a chapter a day; and Jack Woodford, confesses he wrote his novel, "City Limits" in three days.

Kathleen Norris admitted to us she wrote a short story in one hour, ten minutes for which she received a thousand dollars. P. G. Wodehouse wrote seven short stories in one week—then didn't write a line for a year. Martin Flavin wrote his most successful play in two and a half weeks of actual work.

Hugh Wiley took two years to write a four thousand word story dealing with a San Francisco Chinese character. Gertrude Atherton worked six years digging up material and doing research for a novel that took two and a half months to write. Lincoln Steffens worked five years on his autobiography before it was completed.

Mrs. Atherton (and we wouldn't tell this one, but for the fact that she is out of California) wrote a short story on assignment for Liberty for which she was paid $1500. The editors finally decided it was not suited for Liberty and although it has been in their possession for five years, the story has never been published.

Certain environment, most authors will confess, is absolutely necessary, or the keys on the typewriter will not respond with their customary rhythm.

Zane Grey wrote his first novel on an old Morris chair, with a board across the arms, upon which rested his typewriter. That same

Morris chair is carried with him wherever he goes—even on his yachting trips.

Sam Blythe, who was the first man to introduce a typewriter into a newspaper office, still uses an old fashioned machine with a ten-row keyboard. There is only one stenographer who can read his typewriting!

The late Morgan Robertson, the sea writer, wrote his first stories aboard ship while a member of the crew. When he was making more money from his pen than he was getting as a sailor, he quit and went to New York.

It took him months to discover why he could not write. Finally, in desperation, he built himself a small cottage to resemble the cabin of a ship, equipping it with all the nautical effects he could lay his hands on.

But even then, the words did not flow from his pen as they should. In time he solved the problem. He hired a youngster to throw buckets of water against the side of the cottage while he worked.

Cornelius Vanderbilt, who often spends his summers at Highlands Inn, writes in bed propped up against countless pillows.

Homer Croy has to constantly gargle his throat while writing and William MacLeod Raine in his Denver home, types his western yarns perched up on a saddle-top stool.

Stewart Edward White plots out his stories swinging in a hammock; Kathleen Norris plays solitaire before sitting down to work and Irvin S. Cobb has to have a mint julep when writing time comes around.

Mrs. Betty Morse, who has been seriously ill for several weeks, is again well enough to be around.

THE LAD WITH A GUN

At the instance of Mayor Catlin, heading a group of bird lovers, Senator Edward H. Tickle has introduced a bill in the state legislature which would make a bird sanctuary of the entire Monterey Peninsula, west of a line running southward from the Monterey bay at Gigling reservation to Mal Paso creek, below the Highlands. Within this territory, should the law pass, all wild things will be protected at all times, so providing a perpetual game refuge.

The extent of territory included, a large part of it wild land, is apt to prevent passage of the act. There is no harm in hunting, and the lad with a shotgun has his place in the community as important for health and character building as any other sport. Certainly the boy who gets a pleasure out of hunting is not going far wrong. To take away the entire field of his endeavor is going beyond the limits of necessity.

Carmel and the other cities of the peninsula are now protected by ordinances against hunting. The environs of Carmel could be also protected through county ordinance. Or a game refuge of limited area, taking in Carmel, the Point, Hatton Fields, La Loma, and Carmel Woods, excluding the mouth of the river, the only duck hunting in the entire neighborhood, and allowing quail and dove shooting in the hills to the east and south, could be established without discouraging all ambition of our hunters. Remember the time when you were a boy, and got more healthy exercise than game as you tramped the fields or scoured the woods, and leave something open for today's lad with his shotgun.

NO PLACE FOR A BATTLE

There will evidently be a battle over the selection next month of a trustee for Sunset School to take the place of Dr. Ferdinand Haasis, whose term expires, and who will not run for re-election. The factions that have wrangled over everything, little or big, that has come before the school board in the past year, intend to carry the fight to the polls. No matter the outcome

AT JOURNEY'S END

To journey as far as Spring—
Was all I asked—
To see old Winter's face
Again unmasked
And, in its place, to view
The mien of youth
Revealing truth
The brush of a robin's wing;
Tulips in bloom!
Can it be, God,
They spell—but doom?

Clouds, pregnant with rain,
Descend and spill
Vibrant color on every hill
Till emerald earth
Shimmers and shines
At matin time
With a vigorous will.

I only asked for a breath of spring . . .
Can it be true
That a robin's wing
And tulips in bloom
Spell only—doom?

SOLACED

These things I have sung will return to me,
In the narrow, quiet sanctuary.

I shall be solaced with all I knew;
There'll be nothing left to reject or rue;

Only that which I loved each early spring
Shall return to me in comforting;

All of the bitterness I have known
Shall be as dried leaves in autumn blown.

V. James Chastra,
in Expression of that election, Sunset School is bound to suffer by it.

Neither side of the controversy wants to injure the school or let it down from the high place it now holds as an educational institution. Nor are the issues of major importance. Both sides are pledged to economical reforms and lower salaries of the teaching staff. Both sides promise that the high standard of the school will be maintained even though costs be cut. There should be plenty of room here for agreement, and the selection of a candidate that would represent no party or faction, but the entire district. We cannot afford to carry on this controversy which, no matter what were its beginnings, has degenerated now into personal animosities.

THE "CARMEL DOLLAR"

Carmel's business association is responsible for a plan to relieve unemployment that, with the help of our people, both those in business and resident, should prove successful, and make a revolving fund that will continue the work until the need for it is past.

The "Carmel Dollar" is explained briefly elsewhere in this issue of the PINE CONE. It has been endorsed by the business men and women, by the city council, and by the general public. The success of its working plan is dependent upon the acceptance of the idea by everybody. The "Carmel Dollar" must circulate freely throughout the community, must be used by the residents of the town as well as by the merchants. The cost for using it, the three cents redemption tax paid by a stamp, is the individual's contribution to the fund for unemployment relief.

With the announcement soon to be made of the issuance of the "Carmel Dollar" certificates, get behind it and help make it circulate. Ask for it at the stores, and accept it in change. Then spend it as quickly as possible—it will be good everywhere locally—and help mature it. Every time each "Carmel Dollar" passes, three cents is made for the unemployed.

People Talked About

Lincoln Steffens is among the group of contributors to a symposium of famous persons published in the February issue of Cosmopolitan. Each gives his impressions on what will happen one hundred years from now.

Steffens in his article on the future of government ends it up with this prediction:

A united industrial organization will probably increase the power of business over our political government till there is an open wedding of the two. And, since the influence of industry upon men's welfare is more direct and vital than that of politics, it seems likely that even though we follow the Fascist route first—a political dictatorship to limit production—ultimately the whole procession may find that struggling Russia has sensed the objective—an industrial dictatorship bound by a universally known and taught plan to produce wealth abundantly and distribute it equitably to a rich people, all workers and all people of leisure, too.

The obstacle at the forks of the road is ownership; the interest of the possessors of stocks, bonds, land and all the signs of privilege. But there is a growing perception of the conflict of interest between the managers of industries and the owners who are steadily being wiped out by depressions, panics, wars and revolutions. It looks as if we should all become working citizens, not of our states, but of our industries, governed by our managers, who are limited in power only by the plans which every child will know and be able to judge them by.

The death recently in Salinas of William J. Nesbitt, for 20 years a sheriff of Monterey county, recalls many of his exploits, several of which occurred in Carmel.

Probably the most famous case in which he took an important part in solving was the murder in 1914 of Helen Wood Smith, an artist. Charred bones of her body were found on Carmel Point.

Sheriff Nesbitt with the assistance of James Hopper and Frederick Bechdolt, who abandoned their typewriters for the time being, solved not only the mystery but laid the murder of the artist to a Japanese who was employed at the Point Lobos cannery.

The Jap was given a life sentence in the superior court at Salinas and was imprisoned at San Quentin, where he died several years ago.

Another time, Sheriff Nesbitt pursued a maniacal desperado on horseback up Main street in Salinas. The outlaw fired wildly from his own mount, the bullets imperiling many lives. One slug crashed through the window of the late Superior Judge Fred Treat's home, drilling a pillow under the head of Mrs. Treat. Nesbitt caught the outlaw alive.

Before he was an officer, Nesbitt had a speaking acquaintance with Tibursio Vasquez, one of California's most famous bandits. One of the unpublished stories of Vasquez, Nesbitt used to relate, was of how the bandit travelling in the Big Sur section, fell from his horse and broke his arm. The accident occurred near the ranch of a wealthy Mexican, who took Vasquez to his home and nursed him. The bandit represented himself as a visitor from Mexico. The recovery was slow, probably because of the ranchero's lovely daughter.

The bandit, according to Nesbitt's story, had won the girl's heart and one morning, they disappeared. The angered rancher, mounted the swiftest horse and rode fast through Carmel in search for the couple. After several days, he finally located them in Livermore valley, where the rancher wounded the bandit and regained possession of his daughter.

It is of considerable interest to Carmel that the Monterey Hermit Thrush, a popular peninsula bird, was discovered some forty years ago by T. E. Slevin, a brother of L. S. Slevin, Carmel merchant.

The bird was named after its discoverer and is scientifically known as Hylocichla guttata slevini. Slevin's brother stood high in ornithological circles and his magnificent scientific collection of birds was burned in the San Francisco fire of 1906.

Lincoln Steffens is about to do some muckraking of his own—and right in Carmel.

It appears now that someone with maleficent intentions, forged the famous Steffens' signature on a petition that was presented to the city council sometime ago, asking a ban on the sale of jig-saw puzzles. Steffens' name appeared on the petition with the signatures of 50 other Carmel residents—all who protested to the nefarious practice of working out jig-saw puzzles. They charged in the petition that the puzzles have monopolized the entire time of housewives and kept them from the performance of such duties as bed making and washing dishes.

How his signature got there and who put it there is the puzzle that Steffens now wants to work out. For it appears that the signature is so like his own, that only the closest scrutiny reveals the forgery.

"Why it's ridiculous," Steffens complained today. "I wasn't even in Carmel when the petition was circulated or presented to the council. I could never have signed it."

So Steffens was back this week to his old job of muckraking in an attempt to discover who used his name in vain and forged it on the petition. Other signers of the petition, members of the Carmel underworld and all on whom the shadow of suspicion has fallen are being questioned by Steffens.

After all, Steffens says, his name is worth protecting.

A Lecture on Christian Science

"Christian Science Universally Available" was the subject of a lecture delivered in Sunset School Auditorium on Sunday afternoon, January 29, by Bicknell Young, C. S. B., of Chicago, Illinois, member of the Board of Lectureship of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts. The lecture, under the auspices of First Church of Christ, Scientist, Carmel, was, in part, as follows:

There has never been given to the world a more reassuring and cheering message than that expressed by the words, God is Mind. It is basic to all understanding and practice of Christian Science.

You will observe that when we say, God is Mind, we use the word "Mind" in its infinite meaning, not in any personal or finite sense. In fact, Christian Science shows that the tendency to personalize our redeemer and the way of redemption has not only darkened the religious sense of mankind but has tended to mislead the Christian world in the hours of greatest need. Nothing finite or personal could represent either our God or our redeemer. Divine ideas alone can meet such a divine requirement.

The words and works of Jesus, when carefully considered, show that the power which he exercised was not personal. He did not claim that no one but himself could do such works. He exemplified the right way of healing for all of us. This way was and is scientific in that it is according to divine Principle and rule. Being scientific we may walk in it, and he urged his disciples to do so. It was not his personality that made him the Christ, noble and grand though that personality must have been. It was the true idea of God, the actual truth of being, steadfastly present as his thought or consciousness. This was the Christ, and is the Christ now.

The way in which the healing takes place is mental, or, to speak more accurately, spiritual. It is well known that the practice of this Science is not associated with material remedies or material systems of any kind. It is also well to state that Christian Science has nothing in common with thought transference or telepathy or mental suggestion or hypnotism, and in no respect resembles any other method usually called mental. It is Christian, with none of the aspects whatsoever of paganism or magic. Every thought that accurately explains Christian Science, every thought that makes it correctly apprehensible, every thought that is employed in the true practice of this Science is of divine origin. The whole trend of this Science is to glorify God, good, and to enable mankind to lay hold upon the divine power and utilize it to meet the human need.

Now, if this is proved true, if this Science understood can invoke divine aid, then beyond all question anything that ought to be accomplished to bless and benefit us individually and racially is possible. That individual cases of disease are healed in thousands of instances is therefore not only a matter of great satisfaction and thankfulness on the part of those who are healed, but it is also of great encouragement to individuals, communities, governments, nations, and all mankind.

Why is this so? Simply because of the fact that Christian Science shows that everybody's belief about disease constitutes the so-called law of disease. In healing any specific case Christian Science treatment nullifies this false law. It is not conceivable that anything less powerful than omnipotence itself could thus destroy the malign influence of fears and beliefs with which humanity individually and collectively afflicts itself.

Let it be said, however, that while it is true that Christian Science Mind-healing may be demonstrated for one person by another, yet it is equally true that the full benefit of this unique Science is gained only by individual effort, and it must be seen that the prejudices and fears which sometimes cause one to hesitate to accept the one infinite Mind as the basis of thought and action are without foundation. One multiplication table is enough for everybody. One honesty is equally so. Everybody may have all of either or all of both, and no one else be deprived of the same full measure of either or both. So it is with one infinite Mind.

Mary Baker Eddy discovered this Science. She was the first practitioner of this Science. Those who were benefited by her ministrations did not immediately understand her teachings. For years she had to stand alone, and she had to present and prove to mankind the value of original and revolutionary ideas concerning God, man, the universe, and the healing Christ. Gradually those who were healed and helped became adherents to her doctrine and many of them entered upon the practice of healing the sick by the method which she had discovered and which at first she alone taught.

I knew Mrs. Eddy only slightly, but in view of much that has been said of her by writers who never saw her and who really knew nothing about her, it may not be improper for me to speak of one particular interview which I was privileged to have with her and during which I could observe her closely.

Because of this I have more than once been asked to describe Mrs. Eddy. She was in all that constitutes personal appearance well worth describing, and yet I could not attempt to describe her because something greater than any human personality however attractive commanded one's exclusive attention in Mrs. Eddy's presence.

Although she kept in touch with contemporary affairs and was thoroughly alive to the circumstances and events of a changing world, still it could be observed that she looked out upon the world rather than out from it; and in the case of this particular interview the thought of her personality was lost sight of in the unique eloquence with which she spoke of the grandeur of divine Science and of the blessings which must accrue to mankind through the acceptance of this Science.

She spoke much and wonderfully of the power and presence and immutable law of Love, and when an instance was mentioned wherein she had been as much wronged as it is possible for one person to be wronged by another, her spontaneous forgiveness was couched in the noblest terms of pure Christianity.

In the textbook of Christian Science, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy (p. 1), the author writes: "Regardless of what another may say or think on this subject, I speak from experience. Prayer, watching, and working, combined with self-immolation, are God's gracious means for accomplishing whatever has been successfully done for the Christianization and health of mankind."

Exhibit in Palo Alto

An exhibition of illustrations, designs and handicrafts by Margaret de Lamos Lyon and Esther de Lamos is being shown at the Palo Alto Public Library Art Gallery under the auspices of the Palo Alto Art Club. A more fortunate choice of exhibitions for this community could hardly have been made both from the standpoint of artistic merit and interest, for the artists, daughters of Pedro J. de Lamos, Palo Alto and Carmel artist and designer, are exhibiting publicly in Palo Alto for the first time, although their work has been privately shown in art circles during the past year.

Pat Field is in Palo Alto this week where she has entered several pets in the dog show there.

Mr. and Mrs. James Dole spent several days in Carmel this week on their way to Honolulu from the east. Dole, who is connected with the pineapple industry, was the sponsor of the now famous $25,000 flight from Oakland to the islands.

Arriving at Carmel Friday for the weekend, the Palo Alto Badminton team will make their headquarters at Pine Inn. They are on the Peninsula for a return match with the Old Monterey Polo Club team. Two weeks ago Monterey journeyed to Palo Alto where the match ended in a draw.

Ingham Speaks Here

A. B. Ingham, principal of the Pacific Grove high school, will be the guest speaker for the Carmel Parent Teachers Association next Wednesday afternoon at three o'clock.

Mr. Ingham is to speak on "Financing the Schools of California." Sources of revenue and the various reasons for tax reapportionment will be told in a simple straightforward way. In presenting this subject before a similar group in Pacific Grove in the early fall the speaker made present conditions most clear, especially for those who have not given the matter personal study.

The public is cordially invited to attend this meeting and to enter into the discussion.

Eugene Watson, president of the Business Association, will give explanatory talks within the next few days on the subject of the "Carmel Dollars" before the Masonic Club, the Carmel Woman's Club, the Parent-Teacher Association, and to a group of Carmel Highlands residents.

Two prominent dentists will locate in suites upstairs. They are: Dr. Harry Brownell and Dr. F. V. Randol. A dental technician has also reserved space in the upstairs portion of the building.

Most merchants will occupy the building at once, though Burns will not move until March the first.

Sincere co-operation of all concerned has made possible the rapid completion of remodeling operations of the Goldstine Building, located at the corner of Franklin and Alvarado streets in Monterey.

While a number of outside contractors were awarded billets on the job, nearly all of the labor employed was local, which is a credit to the ideals of the Peninsula in relieving local needs.

However, such local leaders as Thomas H. French, Rose Brothers, Central Supply Company, and others were awarded contracts on the construction work. French did the glasswork intoto and the wood sandblasting. Rose Brothers, Home Furnishers, laid the Armstrong linoleum, and the Central Supply Company supplied all materials for plastering and cement work, and in addition supplied and laid the roof. Several other local supply firms and contractors were also awarded work on the job.

The building has been completely made over into one of the most attractive buildings which grace any business section of the Peninsula, the former "long store on the corner" having been converted into several stores, and the upstairs having been changed into a number of entirely modern office suites.

Many distinguished Monterey business houses will locate in the new building. La Mode Shop, one of the leaders in ladies retail ready to wear merchandising will occupy one of the fine new stores on Franklin street. The Security Finance Company and the Monterey Lending Library will occupy space in the Building, while Ed-
